Artificial Bait Strategies for Deep Structure

Ben Garvens grew up in southeastern Wisconsin and has been chasing Smallmouth bass, as well as other species, for most of his life. His approach to fishing began with techniques related to live bait. But in recent years he has translated experience into targeting deep water smallmouth with primarily artificial presentations.

Ben will be discussing the proven techniques and technology that he employs throughout the year to be successful in targeting deep, clear water bass on Geneva.

SHARING TIPS LEARNED FROM

FISHING GUIDES & OTHERS

Bob Rice grew up fishing Geneva Lake and the Chicago lakefront with my dad. They would fish out of 14 ft rental boats and go out and catch rock bass and panfish. In 1992, Bob's family bought a boat, which they still use today as a backup boat. The new boat opened up other lakes and additional areas of Geneva to fish.

Rice and his wife Eileen, who is also an avid and accomplished angler who also loves to teach 1st graders to fish, have traveled around the US together fishing new lakes and learning from local fishermen and fishing guides to make the most of their vacations. Bob is looking forward to sharing what he and Eileen have learned fishing local lakes as well as some of the lakes you see on TV during the Bassmaster tournaments.

This meeting will give members and guests a chance to learn valuable techniques Bob and Eileen have picked up from various experts.
