Tim Newman - Brew City TMS
USING FORWARD FACING LIVE SONAR
& BEST PRACTICES FOR RIGGING

Tim Newman was known for many years for his expertise in repairing trolling motors. When the new live sonar appeared on the scene, Tim Newman developed a new product, the Brew City CT-360. The CT360 is a heavy-duty, low-profile, and versatile pole mount for Lowrance ActiveTarget, Garmin Live Scope, and Humminbird Mega Live. Newman will concentrate much of his time on selling the CT-360, installing electronics, and teaching anglers how to use their electronics.

Tim began fishing tournaments several years ago, including the Cabela's National Walleye Tour, first as a co-angler in 2015 and then as a professional. His sponsors include Vexus Boats, Mercury Marine, M-W Marine, and St. Croix. Being a tournament angler has given Tim added experience in rigging and showing clients how to use these new live sonar products and electronics in general.

The use of live sonar technology has exploded. Adapting the transducer for each angler's use is a key element in using this modern technology. Tim's new product, the CT-360, is very versatile and has been used successfully by many to improve their results by efficiently catching more and bigger fish. He has used all three brands in his boat and will show us the advantages of each to help you learn how to achieve the desired results. This will be an excellent time to learn about all three brands from an unbiased professional who uses all three brands.
