Darrell Toliver – Sokol Associates & Fishing Enthusiast
WHOSE LINE IS IT ANYWAY?

Darrell Toliver, from Plover, WI has been involved in the hunting and fishing industry for over 40 years, in the retail, marketing, and manufacturing sectors. He is a manufacturer representative for Sokol Associates – a group of professional sales representatives working in the Fishing, Hunting/Shooting and Outdoor industries. Sokol represents several manufacturers in the fishing industry including St. Croix fishing rods, Seaguar fishing line, Frogg Toggs rain gear and outerwear, among others.

Toliver is also associated with a wide range of outdoor, public, service, and educational organizations that include, Wisconsin DNR Angler Education and Hunter Safety Instructor, Wisconsin Learn to Fish program instructor, University of WI – Stevens Point's Becoming an Outdoors Women Instructor for hunting, fishing, and outdoor programs, Past Host of WHBY Radio's Ask-A-Game-Warden Show, Contributing Writer for Gannett Newspaper's Master Angler Fishing Contest and Outdoor Page, Fly Tying and Fly-Casting Instructor, and a Supporting Member to various conservation groups including: Trout Unlimited, Whitetails Unlimited, Wisconsin Waterfowlers Association, Wild Turkey Federation, Walleyes for Tomorrow, and Federation of Fly Fishers.

Darrell will be giving a seminar on fishing line which is very timely as we respool our reels for the 2025 fishing season. He will explain how to select the type of line depending upon how we plan to fish. There are so many choices today of type of line whether it's fluorocarbon, braid, or monofilament. But it is further complicated by subcategories within these types of line. Darrell possesses on-the-water experience to help us make decisions for our angling adventures.
